Contained in the pamphlet are the views of the committee in regard to mutualization, the original petition of President Alexander and his associates to the board of directors, the protest against the reelection of James Hazen Hyde as vice-president, newspaper articles recounting various stages of the controversy and extracts from the reports of the insurance commissioners of Massachusetts and Wisconsin.

In beginning its argument to policyfor a list of the policyholders has been refused and continues as follows:
"It is manifest that the society's administration should be placed upon sounder and broader foundations than those now existing.
